CRS | inc

[Neither talent without instruction, nor instruction without talent can produce the perfect craftsman]

Introduction

The decision to handcuff a subject still remains to some a controversial area. The application of handcuffs is clearly based on the individual's perception of the subject at the time, in the circumstances, while taking into account all the facts, which must be accountable both in law and procedure.

From a potential complaint point of view, subjects who are allegedly unnecessarily handcuffed, those who allege that excessive force was used while handcuffs were applied and handcuffs allegedly being applied too tightly are all important factors to consider.

These elements, together with the common offences relating to the application of handcuffs, assist in the creation of CRS Inc's simple training module to deal with most circumstances.

Benefits:

- Safety of personnel, public and the subject during the detention process
- Ease of application and removal
- Reduction of trauma and injury to the subject
- Expert witness scheme
- Court credibility
- Coverage of 3 systems on course (mechanical, SoftKuff, wraps)
